

World Book Day 2017

Granny wigs, golden tickets and Olivander wands galore...The King's School celebrated World Book Day in style.

All members of the English and Media Department, along with members of other departments around school, decided to dress up as their favourite characters to stimulate and challenge the children's minds; could they guess who we all were?

Outfits ranged from David Walliams' Gansta Granny, Thing 1 and Thing 2, a dazzling golden ticket, Katniss Everdeen and an array of wonderful Wallys, plus many more exciting characters from the staff's favourite books. A thoroughly exciting and amusing day, full of fun and frolics!

Watch this space for many more initiatives from the English Department at King's!
